Chitwood Norberg, R to W Win

John Chitwood and Gunnar Norberg were elected to the city council by decisive majorities Tuesday, and the right to work initiative won two to one.

They will take office at Tuesday night's canvass-the-vote meeting. At the same time the council will select its mayor and apportion the commissions. Since Mayor Chitwood returns for a third consecutive term, only change in council personnel will be Mr. Norberg's replacing Carl Patnude, who did not run for re-election.

The right to work initiative becomes a city ordinance Tuesday night with the certification of the vote, and is effective in 10 days.

It does not prohibit employers from entering into contracts with labor unions covering wages, benefits, working conditions, if the employees accept the union as their bargaining agent. It does prohibit clauses in contracts which bar employment of non-union members. It prohibits strikes and picketing over one issue only, membership or non-union membership. The right to bargain, make contracts, strike or picket remains in all other matters.

With the exception of 33 absent ballots to be opened and counted Tuesday night, the following are the complete results of the election:

Right to work: yes, 850; no, 439. For two members to the city council: Chitwood, 973; Norberg, 551; Nielsen, 371; Campbell, 360; Hazdovac, 267; Benson, 48.

Write-ins: Francis Whitaker 3; Pon Chung, 1.

Total vote cast (exclusive of absent ballots) 1371, which is 47.6 percent of a registration of 2880. This is greater in number but less in percent than the 1956 city election when 1252 of a registration of 2525, or 50 percent, voted.

3000 Students To Gather In Carmel For Music Festival

Three thousand students from the Central Coast Counties are expected in Carmel on April 19 to perform in the Musical Festival at Sunset and Carmel High School, according to John W. Farr, music teacher at the High School.

Twenty-three vocal groups, one including 150 voices, will give performances at Sunset School while 22 instrumental groups perform at the High School in the gymnasium and music room. The Festival starts at 9:00 o'clock in the morning and continues until 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. Students will come here in busses from all over Santa Cruz, San Benito and Monterey Counties. One group will come from San Luis Obispo, another from Arroyo Grande and a third from as far north as Live Oak.

The students' performances are judged by adjudicators from outside the central coast counties district. One of the judges is to be Dr. Karl Ernst, music superintendent of the San Francisco schools, and national president of the Music Educators' Association.

All performances will be open to the public without charge.

PART I.

Diamond Head! And welcoming planes! Soon catamarans, outriggers, even a lone "surfer" came out to greet us and to escort us to the harbor of Honolulu! As our ship the Lurline, with its entourage glided past Waikiki Beach, I knew that there in that lovely green water and on that superb beach we would spend many happy hours with much fun, for we were quite at home in the surf. Then as we passed several stately hotels facing the beach, amid palms and luxurious gardens, I foresaw many delightful times with friends and much gay entertainment in those inviting places. But most important to me was the question, "What would I as an artist find on the islands to take back to California, on paper or canvas: something new and exciting to me?"

After being ensconced in our hotel, where our lanai (porch to a "Mahina") looked out upon Waikiki Beach, we spent many hours merely gazing out upon the ocean, fascinated by its marvelous colors: on the horizon, deep purple; closer to us, dark indigo blue; then, still closer, deep rich green changing gradually through lighter greens to the white breakers turning on the sandy shore.

Also from our lanai we enjoyed watching the scores of "surfers" tearing in on their boards, their balance and graceful movements giving me practice in making quick sketches, getting down with a few brief lines the action and poise of their superb figures.

Between the beach and the lawn before our hotel was a narrow paved promenade. Here, was a constant flow of humanity passing in single file: Hawaiian brown beach boys, wide-shouldered, with small waists and narrow hips, Egyptian-like in character; sailors, soldiers, and airmen "on the prowl" with their cameras; young native girls in "Les Minimums" (bikinis); plump American matrons and middle-aged and elderly men in shorts, ample in girth; and

Berlioz, Bartok On Program For Symphony Concert

The Monterey County Symphony Orchestra gives its last concert this season on Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock in Sunset School Auditorium. The orchestra, under the direction of Gregory Millar, opens the program with Royal Hunt and Storm from Berlioz' opera The Trojans. New York violinist Anahid Ajemian is soloist in the next number, Bartok's Violin Concerto.

Mr. Millar returned last week from an appearance as guest conductor with the Pittsburgh Symphony. He also conducts and founded the San Francisco Little Symphony which is one of two orchestras in the United States to be invited to perform this summer at the Brussels World Fair. The other invitation was issued to the Philadelphia Orchestra, Eugenie Ormandy, conductor.

Miss Ajemian was unanimously praised by New York critics last season for her impeccable musicianship after her solo recital at Town Hall. She has also appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic under Thomas Sherman and under Dimitri Mitropoulos, conductor of the Minneapolis Symphony.

Gregory Millar will conduct the Monterey County Symphony again next year, and with Mrs. Millar and his two children, Denise and Jason, make his home on the Peninsula in the Country Club area.

City Moves To Acquire More Beach

Opportunity to acquire more city beach, south of city limits, which the council has been eyeing hopefully for months, came nearer realization at last night's council meeting. City Clerk Larry Rose read a letter from Margaret Owings, secretary of the Lobos League, in which she stated that the Lobos League is willing to contribute $500 toward purchase of the beach land.

The Council instructed Clerk Rose to inquire of the Lobos League if the $500 could be used for title search instead, since there is a possibility that the land may be donated if the city can clear title.

The beach comprises a 600 foot-long strip, extending south from Santa Lucia Avenue to the Walker House, designed by Frank Lloyd Wright.

Former Mayor Horace Lyon, before his resignation from the council, said that the land might be contributed, but the title is clouded and cost of title search, about $500, would have to be borne by the city. The Lobos League's donation would take care of this.

The council was not prepared to spend $79.00, not just yet, anyway, as Carmel's pro-rata share of the $2000 needed to set the area planning commission up in business.

"This is just first cost," Allen Knight pointed out. He felt that the area planning commission would duplicate work now done by the individual planning commissions of the Peninsula cities and the county planning commission. The cities' planning commissions could get together as occasions arose and do the work as volunteers instead of hiring professionals, he said.

Carl Patnude thought there wasn't much use of going along with the area planning commission idea unless there was some assurance that the county would give consideration to its recommendations. He cited the number of times the county planning commission had disregarded the wishes of the Carmel planning commission.

Everett May said that the larger body would have more influence and urged that the city council endorse the idea of an area planning commission, though it might delay making its contribution towards costs of setting it up.

Somebody pointed out that the county supervisors had refused to approve contributing $1000, the county share toward the $2000. Councilman May said that the area commission had made a new request, that the county contribute $500 and provide the staff. (Continued on Page Four)

Incumbents Returned; Ballots Run Short In Airport Election

Four incumbents were re-elected to the Monterey Peninsula Airport District Board of Directors in Tuesday's election: George Clemens and Loren H. Smith for the two year term; Dr. James B. Finley and Alton Walker, for four years.

The peninsula-wide airport district election rode along with the city election in Carmel, and Carmel voters were handed airport ballots along with their ballots for city council until supply of the airport ballots ran out. A shortage occurred in two Carmel precincts, Sunset and the Youth Center, in one of the two Seaside precincts, and in Del Rey Oaks.

City Clerk Larry Rose, much harried by phone calls from voters who wanted to know why they couldn't exercise their right of franchise for airport directors, explained that they should call the airport board office in Monterey. The city is in no way connected with the airport district, and had nothing to do with the distribution. (Continued on Page Four)

PADRE NINE LOSES TO MONTEREY; PLAY AT HOLLISTER FRIDAY

Carmel High's varsity baseball team stepped out of its class at Monterey last Tuesday afternoon and received a baseball lesson from the classy Toreador nine. The Padres made a fight of it for the first three innings but in the bottom of the fourth the hosts exploded for 7 runs to ice the game 7 to 1. Carmel hit the scoreboard in the first inning when Andy Gray stretched a single into a double and scored on Joe Mason's solid single into left field.

Tim O'Shea opened on the mound for the Padres and showed good stuff in the first three innings, striking out five, walking three, and allowing two hits. However, in the fourth frame, the swift lefty lost control and walked the bases full to set the stage for catcher Paul Dagui's booming triple which cleared the bases. Brother Phil O'Shea took up the mound duties at this point but the plate was also moving around for him and four more Monterey counters crossed the plate before he was derricked. Bud Conroy pitched the last two innings for the Padres and showed good stuff by blanking the hard-hitting Toreadors. The stocky righthander showed good poise on the mound as he pitched himself out of the tough spots.

The Padres played errorless ball in the losing effort against Monterey but they were handcuffed at the plate as pitchers Quarles and James buzzed the fast ones by them for strikes. Lyle James, veteran second-baseman, was the top hitter for the Padres, stroking a perfect 3-for-3 as he enjoyed the Monterey fastball pitching. Joe Mason and Neil Giarratana were the only other Padres to hit safely, both connecting for singles.

Lyle James and Paul Dagui swung the big bats for the Toreadors, Paul hitting a triple with the bases loaded and Lyle connecting for a bases-loaded double.

Friday afternoon, the Padres travel to Hollister for their first league game of the season. Hollister is the B-division defending-champion and the experts are again favoring the Haybalers to cop the crown. Coach Bob Matson has a veteran aggregation returning for duty this season and has the league's top pitcher, Dave Grow, casting them over for his Haybalers. Hollister has won four of five practice games, losing to the strong Salinas Cowboys in a 2-1 pitcher's battle. Carmel's practice record is evenup at 1-1, winning from the Palma Chieftans, 12 to 5, and dropping the nod to the Monterey Toreadors, 7 to 1.

Tim O'Shea and Joe Mason will from the starting battery for the Padres at Hollister with Jim Conway and Bud Conroy ready for relief duty.

While the Carmel varsity is at Hollister, Coach Dan Yurkovich's junior-varsity team will host the Monterey jayvees in a 4:00 o'clock tussle. The Padre junior-varsity has been to the post only once this season, edging the Palma jayvees, 4 to 3. Bud Cunningham and Larry Frazer will divide the pitching duties for the Little Padres with John Wilkin behind the plate.

CARMEL TRACK TEAM AT KING CITY RELAYS SATURDAY

Casting suspicious glances overhead for rain and paying close attention to all weather reports, Coach Fred Rainer's often-rained-out track squad has put in a full week of vigorous training in preparation for the King City Relays which are slated to go on this Saturday morning at 10:00 o'clock. The anxious Padre thin-lads haven't engaged in an official meet this season, being limited to an informal skirmish with Monterey at the MPC oval and competing as courtesy contestants in the Salinas-Bellarmino meet.

At Saturday's King City Relays, the Carmel lads will find plenty of competition since all the CCAL schools will be present together with most of the high schools between King City and Santa Barbara. The Padres are sending full teams in both the varsity and lightweight divisions and the competition at King City serves as a good tightener for the big dual meet with Pacific Grove which is scheduled for the Carmel track next Thursday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. Carmel's top point prospects in the star-laden King City Relays appear to be Ted Smith in the broad jump and pole vault, Mike Raggett and Frank Wallace in the half-mile, Pete Hanson and Art Wilkerson in the mile, Alf Anderson in the 440 and Bill White in the pole vault. These boys have times and distances which compare favorably with the best in the meet and should be there or thereabouts in all their events.

Saturday morning's trials begin at 10:00 o'clock with the finals slated for 1:00 p.m.

BABE RUTH TRYOUTS

All boys interested in trying out for the Carmel Babe Ruth League team are requested to meet with manager Jack Miller at the High School field immediately following the Little League tryouts on Saturday April 12. Any boy who was born between September 1, 1942 and September 1, 1945 will be eligible for competition on the Carmel Team which will be entered in the Monterey Peninsula Babe Ruth League.

The season will start on May 30 and the three pre-season tryouts are scheduled for April 19, 26 and May 3, at El Estero Park in Monterey. Equipment will not be required Saturday as the first meeting is for signup purposes only. All of the graduates from last year's Little League are especially urged to sign up.

MERCHANT SOFTBALL TEAM PLAYS AT SOLEDAD SUNDAY

With the rooting section stacked against them and no chance for a home-and-home arrangement on a return game, the Carmel Merchant softball team makes its 1958 debut this Sunday at the Soledad Prison. The local softball partiers will make a day of it at the Soledad diamond, playing one game at 9:30 a.m. and coming right back after lunch for another tilt at 12:30 p.m. Co-managers Paul Aptelian and Don Sands are high on their team this season and figure to make a strong challenge for the Peninsula A-class title and also to make a good showing in the strong Tri-County League. Backed by the Village Merchants, this year's club is manned for the most part by local players with two or three key positions filled by outside talent. A strong one-two pitching punch in the persons of Paul Fucketson and Johnny DeAmara assures the Merchants of a solid mound department for all their games. Bill Conlan, considered the top softball catcher on the Peninsula, will don the mask for the Merchants in all their games this season.

The Merchants are scheduled for a 7:00 o'clock workout at Sunset Field this Friday night in order to sharpen up the batting eyes for the tough competition in store for them at Soledad.

CARMEL TENNIS TEAM AT SANTA CRUZ SATURDAY

Coach Ray Gere's Carmel High tennis squad journeys to Santa Cruz this Saturday morning for league matches with the strong Cardinal racquet-wielders. The Cards are favored to win the CCAL tennis title this season and are undefeated in league play so far. Coach Gere's Padre squad is the best to represent Carmel High for some years and already hold victories over Monterey and Watsonville. Jim Lee and Pete Hanson are one-two on the tennis ladder, closely followed by Tom Hansen, Bill Coleman, Kurt Zacherly, and Chris Kinard. Lee is undefeated in singles play this year and rates close to Barry Baskin, Pacific Grove, as the top singles player in the league.

What is your Dollar worth?

According to the latest reports, your dollar is worth only a little more than 49 cents. That won't buy you much in the way of food, clothing or many of the other essentials of life.

But it will provide a great deal of water service—about 2000 gallons worth. That's a bargain you just can't beat these days.

Our dollar, also, is worth less than half its value of a few years ago.

When we purchase equipment or construct new facilities, we must pay more than double the price for the same value.

We are thankful that under these circumstances we are able to supply water at our present low rates.

Exceptional Easter Music Heard At Carmel Churches

The music I heard in some of the Carmel churches was exceptionally interesting and happy in this Easter's exultation. At the Mission, High Mass at midnight on Saturday was under the musical direction of Heinrich Bender, an experienced musician, recently came from Germany, who is developing a promising choir, with himself at the organ, that adds much to the historical edifice founded by Father Junipero Serra.

At the 9:30 service at the Church of the Wayfarer, Connell Carruth at the organ, the Chapel Singers under John Farr gave preludes by Botkin, Bach, Edmundson, Handel, Shaw and the Wesley Hymn, Christ the Lord is Risen today; anthems by Randall Thompson and Saint-Saens, and a Tschaikowsky Legend was sung by the children's choir which Mary Tomfahrde directs.

At 11:00 I reached All Saints' Episcopal Church where Easter music was given an outstanding performance by the choir under director and organist Robert Forbes, augmented by seven other instrumentalists and Donnelly Fenn, baritone soloist. Trumpeters McCormack and Casiday joined in the opening prelude, while harpist Mary Haslett, violinists Charlotte Perry, Eiko Yoshizato, violist Marie Sale and Fritz Barkan, cellist, performed a Vivaldi Concerto for strings and organ, a Grieg Arietta, and Handel Theme and Variations for harp and organ, all of which emanated from the chancel. During Offering, a beautiful old French melody of the fifteenth century, O Filii et Filiae, combined the choir and instruments. They also made a remarkably effective rendering of Handel's Hallelujah Chorus from The Messiah. Forbes' organ support of this service, including the happy hymns, was unusually vibrant. The Postlude was the Toccata by Purvis, Christ is Risen. —M. L.O.

The Time Has Come .

by Kippy Stuart

This is an open letter to my Editor:

Dear Wilma:

In a recent column I suggested fish emulsion as the best fertilizer and you wrote me a public tail-spin to that article. You suggested that I name some other product that would not be so offensive as to odors wafting to the neighbor's gardens. My response to that is, I know of such a fertilizer, based on fish emulsion, that like the skunk on TV, who is called "Mr. Hush . . . Hush . . .", is entirely devoid of odor. Any reader of the Pine Cone has the liberty of calling me at any time on the telephone . . . (Catch me if you can) . . . and gladly I will give name and mention where it can be bought. Thank you Wilma, for this opportunity to explain this column to your readers.

In the past few months I have been a little bit too cocky. I have been going around telling friends that I had the surecure gopher banishment. I recommended small windmills that made a klap-klop noise and were supposed to give gophers nervous prostration. Well, for years I have used these windmills to good effect. In fact I haven't been bothered with a gopher for many years.

These miniature windmills simply chase the gopher to your neighbor's garden. Then it is up to him to do likewise and chase these same gophers on to the next neighbor . . . on . . . on . . . far into the night.

I have had my come-uppance. There is one old veteran of a gopher who is tearing my lawn to pieces. Windmills or no windmills I can almost hear the varmint laughing at me. I have tried poison . . . traps plus my windmills, and merrily the old fellow goes on and on, piling his small play-hills all

Wentworth Show In Studio Eight

A show of pictures by Margaret Wentworth opens tomorrow at Studio Eight in the Carmel Craft Studios and will remain on exhibit through April.

Margaret Wentworth is the wife of architect Nathaniel Owings. They make their home at Grimes Point on the coast south of Big Sur. The pictures Margaret Wentworth is showing here this month reflect her visit to the Near East and impressions about her New Mexico home in the Rio Grande Valley near Santa Fe. In the exhibition are oil crayon and scratched line and ink studies. Most recent exhibition of her work was at the Feingarten Galleries in San Francisco a few months ago. She has also shown at the Santa Barbara Museum, Stanford Art Gallery, Labaudt Gallery in San Francisco, the Knopp-Hunter Gallery in Santa Fe, the Carmel Art Association Gallery and with the New Group of which she was one of the most active members, opening her home for shows of the former local art organization.

TENTH DISTRICT REALTORS MEET HERE

The Tenth District California Real Estate Board met at Pine Inn on Monday night with representatives from Santa Cruz, Monterey, Salinas, Watsonville and Carmel in attendance. Mrs. Gladys R. Johnston of Carmel, state chairman of the resort committee, gave a report.

The next meeting of the group will be on Santa Catalina Island on June 2, when district and board officers will be chosen. Delegates from Carmel are to be William Muscutt, Gladys R. Johnston, Enos Fouratt and Mrs. Freda McGregor.

I am thoroughly exasperated and in my humility I appeal to anyone who can tell me "how to catch a gopher!"

Ted Mann Returns As Producer

Theodore (Ted) Mann returns here on Sunday to vacation for a few days from his production duties in San Francisco at the Geary Theatre, where, with Leigh Connell and Jose Quintero he is presenting Eugene O'Neill's auto-biographical play Long Day's Journey Into Night. Fay Bainter plays the leading role, that of the mother, under the direction of Quintero.

Carlotta Monterey O'Neill, the playwright's widow, chose Connell, Mann and Quintero as producers of her husband's last play because of "their critical and popular" production of The Iceman Cometh at the Circle in the Square Theater in New York. The three men are given much of the credit for the current success of "off Broadway" drama in New York due to their discriminating productions at the Circle In The Square.

Ted Mann first came to Carmel with the Army during the war. He returned to live after the war for some time. Interested in the theatre he gave up a law career to produce plays. He will be accompanied to Carmel by his wife Pat.

City Moves To Acquire More Carmel Beach

(Continued from Page One) county hasn't acted favorably on this yet, but Councilman May thought they would. Pacific Grove and Monterey had appropriated their share, he said.

The council decided "to wait until further clarification before making the appropriation."

Council approved the library's spending $192 for files, $300 for supplies and labor to file and index the Nixon Collection and the Weston prints.

It referred two damage claims to the city's insurance carriers. Grete de Smidt claims damage amounting to $15,000, arising from a collision with a police car, and James and Eleanor Shea ask $40,000 for injuries resulting from their driving their car into the tree island at the foot of Ocean Avenue. Both incidents occurred in January.

William Askew, street superintendent, was granted 60 days sick leave, and William Askew, Jr., designated temporary street superintendent with an increase in salary.

The police department got approval for a "turn left only" sign at the Fifth Street exit from the city parking lot opposite the post office. Funds were granted for Chief of Police Clyde Klaumann's attendance at a FBI training session at Palo Alto, April 30-May 3. ($100) and Sergeant Ellis' going to police school in San Jose, April 24-25 ($50.)

Ballots Run Short In Airport Election

(Continued from Page One) of airport ballots. There were plenty of city ballots, and a Carmel municipal election has never gone more smoothly. City returns were complete from the four precincts and neatly chalked on the city hall blackboard by 9:00 o'clock.

The election officials at the Youth Center precinct summed up the airport ballot situation in the following letter:

"To the Airport District: This is to certify that Carmel Precinct A received 200 ballots in election supplies, 151-350, and an additional 50 ballots, 11,401-11,450 at 5:30 p.m.

"Although we called for more ballots, as we had used 200 and were starting on the last 50, which were gone at 6:30 p.m., we were not able to contact anyone for more ballots."

Signed: Alice Askew, Florence Updike, Vera Marcoli, Mary Craig.

The above officials had to deny about 28 people ballots. At the Sunset precinct, the officials, when they realized they would run short, stopped giving them out with city ballots unless the voter asked for them.

Wednesday morning, County Clerk Ernest McMenamin conferred with County Counsel William Steffers on whether the validity of the airport district election was in question. Counsel Steffers said that if all the people who failed to get ballots had cast their votes for the defeated candidates, the outcome of the election would still not have been materially affected, therefore there was no point in going to the expense of calling another election.

Total Peninsula vote for full term: Finley, 3414; Walker, 3303; Ernest Barbour Jr., 1264. For short term: Clemens, 3067; Smith, 3145; Gordon M. Beall, 1467.

Returns from Carmel's four precincts — full term: Finley, 1034; Walker, 995; Barbour, 235. Short term: Clemens, 835; Smith, 818; Beall, 359.

Patnude Receives Pine Tree Gift

While the tree ceremonies were taking place, Fire Chief Robert Smith produced a fire helmet; City Clerk Larry Rose decorated it with a placard labelled "Lame Duck," somebody found crutches for the lame duck, and Mr. Patnude, who has served as fire commissioner during his four years on the council, put on the hat and wore it throughout his last regular council meeting. Tuesday, the "old" council will meet only to canvass the vote, then adjourn, and meet again to swear in Mr. Patnude's replacement, newly elected Gunnar Norberg.

Carl Patnude declined to run for re-election because he wished to devote more time to his family, which consists of his wife Shirley and daughters: Donna, 18, a freshman at Monterey Peninsula College, and Lois, 14, in her first year at Carmel High School.

"Home is a place to have fun, and this requires time," he told the Pine Cone. "When juvenile delinquency is talked about, I always say look at home first."

He has enjoyed serving on the council, and he says he is going to miss it.

"More people should take an interest in city government. It is true that many people only come to their councilmen when they want something."

"Serving on the council has made me know my city, what to do about it, and what should be done." Carmel's city council serves in city manager capacity and members of the public attending three and four hour council meetings accuse the council of "dilly-dallying and humming and hawing," instead of getting things done in an hour, according to Mr. Patnude. He would like them to attend the meetings and go home with some knowledge about the city, even if that knowledge were acquired in a brief fifteen minutes of a long session. The time-consuming details often have far reaching importance, he declares. A seemingly insignificant discussion may de-

Leidig Not To Run For School Board, Dr. Fletcher Files

Glehn Leidig announced last week he would not be a candidate for reelection to the Carmel Unified District School Board in the May 20 election. "I have been a member for six years and I think that's long enough," he said.

During his service on the board Leidig has been a member of the salary, insurance and safety committees and on the school finance district committee.

Dr. Grant Fletcher of Carmel Valley, assured by Leidig's announcement that he would not be a candidate on May 20, immediately filed to fill the vacancy. Dr. Fletcher is anesthesiologist for both hospitals on the Peninsula. He is the father of three sons, two attending Tularcitos School and the third a kindergarten candidate this fall.

He is a member of the board of directors of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association, belongs to the Carmel Valley Trail and Saddle Club, is secretary of the curricula committee of Tularcitos School and a member of the citizens' committee campaigning for the proposed bonds and override tax election for the Carmel School District.

Joe Walsh of Carmel Valley has also filed.

fine policy for future councils by full exploration of all facets of a matter.

"Keep Carmel as it was is an abused and trite expression, but a fine objective," Carl Patnude maintains. "Each individual decision by the council affects the overall picture. It should direct growth in the right direction, a growth that can't be stopped but should be controlled."

"Each decision must be made in consideration of its specific relating circumstances," he continued. "What is valid for one person may not be so for the next person. It's hard to say 'No' in seemingly similar situations but the overall preservation of Carmel demands this definite differentiation at times."

Retiring fire commissioner Patnude declares, "the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department is saving the community thousands of dollars and cannot be highly enough praised by the citizens. Without the volunteers, the cost of the Fire Department would be prohibitive. Hiring full-time fire chief Robert Smith was a step forward. The growing responsibilities of the department demands the attention of a full-time chief."

Looking back four years to when he was a fledgling on the council, Carl Patnude believes that new councilmen should not set out "to crusade" but establish basic principles for keeping Carmel "as it was with growth," while weighing problems as they arise.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK
By Ruth Galvin Thorneburg

A book which started circulating last week but which we did not mention because of lack of space at the time, was Maggie-Now by Betty Smith. It is another book about Brooklyn, as was her earlier A Tree Grows in Brooklyn. This is the story of Maggie-Now Dennis. At an early age the death of her mother left her to keep house and care for her father who was a born leaner. She married another leaner, but in spite of all this she managed to lead a rich life because of her own inner strength and courage.

To this librarian, the years seem to have made Edna Ferber write more words and less heart. Her latest book, Ice Palace, is a good book and one you will want to read in spite of its wordiness. There is only one real love interest and that is love of Alaska. The people are incidental, not always believable but always likeable. They are good people, and someone has to make the speeches which Miss Ferber has in mind to be said for Alaskan statehood. Perhaps this book will make you want to visit Alaska more than many non-fiction pieces on the same subject, partly because of these likeable people living their casual lives. Some of us wish she would write another Dawn O'Hara, or even another Show Boat, or Saratoga Trunk. This one is Ice Palace.

Anya Seton, whose last book was the very popular Katherine, has just published The Winthrop Woman. It is historical fiction again, and with that sturdy, well-documented atmosphere found in earlier historicals by the same author. The Winthrop Woman was Elizabeth Fones. This is the story of her three marriages, but especially the story of her rebellion against the rigid puritanical standards of her day.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Newman of Carmel watching Dale Lefler's demonstration of songs and dances to be used in the Monterey Peninsula League's Cabaret, Mississippi Showboat, in May. An organizational party for the popular fund raising event of the League was held at the Beach Club recently and a date for the affair is being set. Mrs. Newman is Chairman of the Cabaret Show Committee.

Interior Decoration was edited by Mary Brandt. She seems to go through the rooms of a house, any house, discussing the various types of rooms and their tasteful decoration. There are many color prints and even more black and white illustrations. This is practical stuff, not luxurious ideas to dream about.

With An Deliberate Speed by Don Shoemaker reports on the various methods taken by southern and border states to comply with the Supreme Court ruling on desegregation. Peter Anson tells the life story of Fra Jerome Hawes in The Hermit of Cat Island. The book is based upon the published writings, the diaries, and the letters of Fra Jerome. And finally, there is The Whole World, Stranger, by Virginia Moore. The author is a world traveler with a great concern for the oneness of the human race. Wherever she travels she sees this oneness brought out, and it is thus that she writes about her journeys.

If you were high and dry during the flood, rejoice with a good book. If you were flooded out, clean up the place, and then relax with a good book. And come to us for the book!

Sketching In Hawaii

(Continued from Page One) children by the score. I, then and there, planned a frieze (a project for the future) consisting of this passing pageant framed in by the palms of the garden and with the changing sea in the background. If I could only wire it for sound! adding to the painting a cacophony of sound; ukulele music, the "homalimali" of the Brown Beach Boys, the breaking waves, the chatter and shrill cries of the Myna birds in the huge banyan tree, the screams of children as the waves tossed them shoreward, and the shouts of the riders in the outriggers racing in!

In Kapiolani Park, near our hotel, frequent programs are given; Hawaiian instrumental music, songs, and hula dances for visitors wishing to take movies or stills, for their records. Instead of using a camera I made sketches, getting down quickly the essential lines, the essence of the action. As part of my art training in New York I had to practice observing an object in action, then recording it from memory. This training I was finding very useful not only for the surfers but for capturing the grace and rhythm of the dancers. At the zoo in the park I found the penguins very amusing models, and, at the Aquarium, the colors, shapes, and patterns of the amazingly varied fishes were also a subject for my pencil work. The electric eels, whose electric charges were audibly recorded, were gruesome yet fascinating. "I like eels except at meals." In addition, I made a sketch of the most homely piscatorial visage I have ever seen, though it was hard keeping my eyes on it long enough to complete my drawing.

On our exploring trips about Oahu, I was particularly impressed by the Shower Trees, (at that time in full bloom) in gay pinks, whites, yellows, orange, and flame colors. Gardens most everywhere were well kept and filled with exotic flowers and blooming shrubs. The colorful leaves of the "Ti" plant are used for decoration in the homes, and youngsters use them to sit on and coast down hillsides. Most startling are the Croton leaves, varied and vivid in color. When I begged some of these from the manager of the Princess Kaiulani Hotel (its garden was glowing with them) he said, "Help yourself, just so you don't pull them up by the roots."

Our lanai became my studio. There at my leisure I made many color studies of leaves and blossoms. Noticing these and the masses of foliage and blossoms, which I had begged or swiped, the native girls who cared for our rooms became interested in my work and brought me other kinds of leaves, ginger blossoms, hibiscus, and even orchids.

On our drives about Oahu we found many delightful vistas: rugged coastlines; precipitous mountains, some green, others dramatically dark; plantation huts and villages; and picturesque homes beside palm-fringed lagoons. The sugar-cane growing out of deep-red soil, their light plumes waving against a background of dark rocks or mountains, interested me; also the pineapple plantations, but these chiefly for their finished product, yet to come. The rugged bird rocks near the shore and the "Chinaman's Hat," a weirdly shaped island, impelled me to jot down quick outline and color notes, adding camera shots for form. These I have recently used in some of my finished water colors.

I found sketching both a delight and a problem. It was a delight to drink in the new sights, the colors, the exotic vegetation, new forms, new rhythmic ceremonies and conventions, but it was disconcerting not always to have my sketching materials at hand, or, when other members of our party were anxious to hurry on to next scene, or to lunch! not to have a chance to stop long enough to concentrate and memorize the appealing colors and forms so that I could put them down on paper on returning to our rooms.

questions of procedure, but there is still a strong interest in the project. At present, the only fire protection is that furnished by the California Division of Forestry trucks at the Carmel Hill Fire Station, which are designed to control grass and forest blazes and are not equipped for house fires. In addition, in many areas outside Carmel, the fire hydrant system is inadequate.

Award Winning Poems

Two Pine Cone poets won awards in the Ina Coolbrith Circle bi-annual contest for poetry published in California Newspapers during 1957. Olivia Young of Carmel received second prize for her poem Take The High Road, published in the October 17 issue of the Pine Cone; Laura Janet Larson of Pacific Grove, honorable mention, for Now Spring Has Come, published in the January 31 issue. The poems are reprinted below.

TAKE THE DIRT ROAD

Go, like a gypsy — barefoot, brown,
Digging toes in dust. Hurry down!
Shout the rude wind back to the glen —
Shove the wind back. Run up again!

On hands and knees crawl under a gate;
sit down by a pool, where silver fins wait and flash in sun; walk lazy, zig-zag;
touch the green coolness; play shadow-tag.

Step gently, stop — one heart-beat still — and listen to trees bending with chill;
and hear how Spring pushes the ground — the lifting, cracking, growing sound.

Climb to a mountain; hold the blue calm of space, of time, within your palm;
recite your prayers with a rosary of a million stars — quietly...

Go! Fill your pockets with fantasy-bread;
nor carry a name; find a dream for your bed.
Pluck the good hours! Let the wind roll!
Red wine in your cup... White wings for your soul...

— OLIVIA YOUNG

NOW SPRING HAS COME AGAIN

Blue lupines are a tidal wave
Engulfing field and hill...
How can my heart hold bitterness?
How can my joy be still?

The almonds string their coral beads
On each uplifting bough...
How can my eyes reject the sight
Of new-born beauty now?

Should I not walk with head held high,
And laughter on my lips...
Rejecting Grief, the flagellant,
With lashing pain for whips?

The crypt of love wherein you are
Is adamant to tears...
I leave a kiss upon the door
And turn to face the years.

LAURA JANET LARSON.

Mary Lindsay-Oliver To Read Her Poetry At Town House

Miss Lindsay-Oliver will speak and read from her poems at the Booklovers meeting, April 14, at 3:00 o'clock, in the Carmel Foundation Town House. The meeting is open to all who are interested in books and authors.

There are many versatile people in Carmel, but none has a broader scope of artistic interests and capabilities than Mary Lindsay-Oliver. Her interest in all the arts dates from her Scottish childhood. Her governess and an accomplished Oxford don predicted for her a writer's career. However music became her chief interest. As a school-girl she was a protegee of Sir W. S. Gilbert (Gilbert and Sullivan) and she toured the provinces in light opera. She also assisted Henry Bird in teaching piano in Kensington, London. Some twenty years ago she staged a performance of The Mikado at Pebble Beach. She has been music chairman for the National Penwomen and she is known not only as pianist, vocal teacher and composer, but as music critic for several magazines. She is also music and drama critic for the Pine Cone and writes program notes for the symphony concerts. She was a charter member of the National Concert Managers' Association, and is a member of various music organizations, including life membership in the National Federation of Music Clubs.

After a thorough art school training, Miss Lindsay-Oliver became a proficient painter, being especially known for her portraits. She has exhibited in many places, including San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington, and, of course, Carmel.

On Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, Mr. Leslie Deck will show a motion picture film entitled: State Trooper, the story of the selection and careful training of recruits for the Michigan State Police.

Miss Benton Does Shadow Plays

Miss Pauline Benton who came to live in Carmel two weeks ago from Hollywood and New York City makes an ancient Chinese art form, the performance of shadow plays, one of her main interests in life. She learned to perform with the translucent colored figures, which move behind a translucent screen, while living in China and the Philippines. The entertainments which she has given with her assistants in the United States, Canada, the Bahamas and Hawaii interpret Chinese art and culture to other peoples.

"The Chinese say their shadow plays, developed 1,000 years ago, were the first movies," says Miss Benton, "the present day motion pictures they call 'electric shadow plays'."

The collection of transparent figures which Miss Benton acquired in China are made from donkey skin parchment, those from Turkey of camel skin, from Java of water buffalo skin and her French "Chinese shadows" of cardboard. She also makes her own figures and with them gives performances of modern shadow dramas.

"I have been looking for an interesting place in which to live in California for three years," says Pauline Benton, "Carmel is the answer."

The meeting, under the joint sponsorship of the World Affairs Council of the Monterey Peninsula and the Carmel Adult School, will be held in the high school cafeteria at 8:00 o'clock, and will be open to the public without charge. From Eastern To Western Snows

Wesley Kergan arrived in San Francisco last Friday only one day behind his planned schedule in spite of heavy Sierra snowfalls which delayed the City of San Francisco in Sparks, Nevada, for many hours, and necessitated a track rerouting of the transcontinental train.

Mr. Kergan had been in the east to attend the executive committee meeting of Kappa Sigma fraternity in Bangor, Maine. He is national secretary of the fraternity. Heavy storms were a feature of his Eastern visit, "snow, snow, snow," he says.

This week end he and Mrs. Kergan are going to Sacramento "to sit with our four grandchildren."

Leslie E. Olsen, plasterer, of 694 Alice Street, Monterey, told Carmel police at 3:25 o'clock yesterday afternoon that his car had disappeared from where he had parked it near his job site at San Antonio and Seventh Streets. An all points bulletin was broadcast from the sheriff's substation in Monterey and the California Highway Patrol notified. At 10:40 o'clock last evening the car was recovered in Salinas. It had been taken by a 17 year old youth from Natividad Boys' Ranch in Salinas who escaped from a group brought from the Ranch for an outing at Carmel Beach by ranch supervisor Albert Harner.

Dorothy Dean To Present Students In Spring Festival

A Spring Festival of Dance is to be given by students of Dorothy Dean Studios in Sunset Auditorium on Saturday evening at 8:00 o'clock and repeated on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Dorothy Dean has created the dances on the program with the exception of the tap numbers and Trois Variations sur la Danse which were choreographed by Frank Bourman. Mr. Bourman has performed two years with the Marie Rambert Ballet Company in Europe, is on the staff of the Dorothy Dean School of Dance and is also soloist with the Monterey Peninsula Civic Ballet Company, of which Dorothy Dean is director. Accompanists for the programs are Loretta Gysin and Ernest Tweedy.

Students dancing in the Saturday and Sunday performances are from all over the Peninsula and range from tiny tots dancing Les Fees costumed in a galaxy of bright colors and gossamer fairy wings to members of the Senior Ball interpreting Mazurka, classic Sonatine and Dance Russe with character styling showing the form of ballet interpretations.

The spring theme of the Festival of Dance is featured on the program in Fantaisie du Jardin, Les Petites Fleurs and Bleu Plumes performed with garden motif. Also dancing in the garden scene will be a group of little girls doing folk dances, Gavotte, Polka and Valse.

Ballet Workshop is designed to illustrate, by both teachers and pupils, that the "warp" of the dance is technique, the "weft" interpretation.

Throughout Saturday and Sunday's Festival of the Dance programs, Dorothy Dean pupils will express their teacher's theories and practice "of understanding the needs of children for physical expression and channeling this need into ballet, an effective means of releasing the universal human desire for creative expression."

SPRING MAY BE A LITTLE LATE THIS YEAR...

But it will take more than rain, flood, cloudbursts and gale winds to hush the pipes of Pan. If you listen you can hear them already—the beguiling song of the ancient Greek god, whose realm is forest and wood, meadow and hill, and the flocks which inhabit the green, leafy places. Late or not, Pan's pipe will signal the season of Spring, in Carmel, 1958, as in the ancient Greece of centuries ago.

Enjoy the late spring that is ahead. Plan to live, to entertain out-of-doors. Give your winter-weary wardrobe a fillip with new clothes—a dress, a gay scarf for your throat, beachwear or casual costumes in tune with the new season. Investigate new household helps—to save you time, to put your premises in immaculate order, to make meal preparation less troublesome.
